GENERAL NEWS

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Trials of Strength

BOSTON Aug 17—A large crowd witnessed trials of strength and speed to-day between Irish-American and Scotch-Canadian athletes for $1000 and the championship of [illegible]. The former were represented by Florence [illegible] and James C Daly of [illegible] of Boston, and the latter by Duncan C Ross of New York, and E W Johnson both of Canada. The Irish-Americans were victors by three points.

Drowned

SPRINGFIELD Mass, Aug 17—John C [illegible], secretary of the Masonic Mutual [illegible] association of western Massachusetts and [illegible] were drowned in the Connecticut river. Mrs Taylor leaped from a boat [illegible] where were two other women and her husband. He sprang after her, and being unable to swim, both were lost.

Races at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, Aug. 17—Scotilla won the one mile dash; Cinderella, second; Miser third. Time 1:45.

The handicap two miles was won by Elias Lawrence; Joachoseno, second; Cammie F third. Time, 3:37½.

Oden won the mile and a quarter dash; Big Medicine, second; Dan Sharling, the favorite third. Time, 2:12¾.

To be Investigated.

BOSTON, Aug 17—Secretary of State Evarts writes that the case of Rev J. W Parsons, missionary, murdered in Turkish territory, will have the earnest attention of the United States.

Suicide of a Rogue

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—John Buchanan dean of the eclectic medical college under arrest and to answer charges of fraud in having issued medical diplomas drowned himself at 1 o'clock this A. M. He jumped from the ferryboat between this city and Camden. The body has not been recovered. The harbor police have been dragging the Delaware river for the body, but without success. A ferry hand says that, when he last saw the doctor he was striking out lively for the lower end of Windmill island.

Death of Ex-Governor Johnson of Georgia.

ATLANTA, Aug 17.—Ex-Governor Herschel Johnson died at his residence in Jefferson county last night, aged 68.

Banquet in Grant's Honor at Denver.

DENVER, Aug. 17.—The reception to Gen Grant concluded with a banquet to-night at the Gilman hotel, at which about 200 guests were present. Grant spoke for some time and with great interest throughout. He expressed the greatest surprise with the progress of Denver and magnitude of its future and the state.

Speeches were also made by Gov. Pitkin, Judge Routt, Senator Hill and many others. The dinner was elaborate, and under the charge of Alex. M. C. Stetson, formerly of the Astor House, New York. The general remains here about a week, making a number of excursions, and will then go east.

That "Man Under the Bed" Found at Last.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 16.—J C Walker, a son of Dr Walker of this city, shot and killed a notorious burglar, Bill Rodifor, in his father's residence about 3 o'clock this morning. Rodifor served several terms in the penitentiary from Shelby county, and has but recently pardoned for good conduct. Mrs Walker was awakened by a noise in the house, and discovered that some one was under the bed where her husband was. Mrs. Walker quickly notified her son in adjoining room. In the meantime Rodifor, finding he was discovered, attempted to make his escape and fired his pistol at Dr. Walker missing him. He was backing out of the house, covering the doctor with his pistol and knife. Before reaching the door young Walker came to the rescue and fired, killing him instantly.

An Extraordinary Accident.

[illegible], Aug. 17.—At Pueblo Henry Orr, a railroad employe engaged in driving piles was struck against the point of a crowbar, which passed entirely through the body, killing him instantly.

Cyclone in Texas.

[illegible], Aug. 17.—A two-minute cyclone at Goliad demolished twenty-five houses. Five persons were injured.

A Neighborly Tragedy.

Two farmers, Johnson and Odol, had a fight. Both were killed.

Tobacco Crop in Virginia Damaged.

[illegible], Aug. 17.—One planter has had a field of tobacco destroyed by hailstones. Others have had large quantities ruined.

Congressional Nomination.

[illegible], Aug. 17.—The democrats of the 27th district have nominated Alfred Shor for congress.

Held for Murder.

[illegible], Aug 17.—Mrs. Isabella Smalley, wife of Henry Smalley, died last Friday [illegible]. Upon her body were found marks [illegible], indicative of hard treatment and the coroner's jury held her husband for murder upon good evidence.

Convicted of Fraud.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—Dr. John Buchanan of Eclectic college notoriety has been convicted by the U. S. grand jury on a charge of devising a scheme to defraud and of using the mails for illegal purposes. David Wright, one of Buchanan's graduates, gave a certificate of death from a "col [illegible]" A coroner's jury censured [illegible] as an unqualified physician.

Freight Adjustment.

[illegible], Aug. 17—The final apportionment of freight to the Grand Trunk line has been made by the pool. It gets 10 per cent, of which five comes from the Michigan Central, three from Lake Shore and two from [illegible] Wayne. Its portion of the live stock is [illegible].

WASHINGTON CITY.

Calls for Standard Dollars.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Owing to crop movements the demand for standard silver dollars has increased. Orders to-day aggregate $[illegible]—the largest amount ordered in one day for more than a year.

The "Phenomenal Results" in Census Enumeration

Gen. Walker is not sanguine as to the very [illegible] returns as at first when he was ready to defend the veracity of returns and would not listen to criticism, since [illegible] came along and some of her [illegible] show phenomenal results. He admits that it looks a little singular.

Texas Desperadoes under Arrest.

Attorney General Devens has been notified that the parties who committed outrages in [illegible] county, Tex, through which Reverend [illegible] Bissell was obliged to leave the state have been placed under arrest and have given bail.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Miss Neilson's Death—Conflicting and Mysterious Stories.

PARIS, Aug. 17—Adelaide Neilson was taken Saturday night while driving in the Bois de Boulogne with a lady who has been with her as companion. She had been stopping at the Continental hotel for a few days previous to her death, with her companion, servant, and a gentleman described as her secretary. Circumstances surrounding her death are so suspicious that police inquiry may become necessary. The rooms which Miss Neilson occupied at the Continental hotel have been sealed up and telegrams have been dispatched to her relatives. A later dispatch says that Miss Neilson left her room with a party of friends in the best spirits and apparently in good health to take "dejeuner" in the famous Chalet restaurant in the Bois de Boulogne. At the table she frequently alluded to her success in her profession and spoke hopefully of what she expected to accomplish during the coming season and in the more distant future. Suddenly Miss Neilson turned pale, gave a cry, pressed a hand upon her heart and fell back in her chair. Her friends sprang to her assistance and attempted to bring her back to consciousness, dispatching a messenger for medical aid, but all efforts were of no avail,—Miss Neilson was dead.

Cause of Miss Neilson's Death.

PARIS, Aug 17—A post mortem examination attributes the death of Miss Neilson to rupture of the heart accelerated by extreme exhaustion. Miss Neilson was driving in the Bois de Boulogne when she was seized with sudden illness and was conveyed to the nearest restaurant where she expired. Her remains will be buried in Brompton cemetery London, at the end of the week.

A Chance for Tanner to Prove It

LONDON, Aug 17—M A W Collinson will stake $1000 against a similar sum that Dr Tanner will not fast forty days and forty nights if Collinson's friends watch him.

Disastrous Collision

LIVERPOOL, Aug 17—A collision occurred in the Mersey to-day between the steamer Lanford and the steamer Baltic, for New York. The Lanford sunk, passengers and crew saved. The Baltic put back and went to the dock for repairs.

The Tide of Immigration

LONDON, Aug 17—Emigration returns from Liverpool show an increase of 5000 compared with July 1879. Thirteen thousand emigrants went to America. All cabins on steamers now leaving Liverpool for New York and for some weeks to come are fully engaged. Additional steamships will be run to accommodate returning tourists.

Herbert Spencer Coming to America

LONDON, Aug 17—Herbert Spencer begins next year a tour of the world going from England to the United States.

An American in Trouble.

Thomas McGrath, described as an engineer, belonging to the American man-of-war Trenton, has been committed for trial for killing a man in an affray at Gravesend.

A New Enterprise in Vienna

VIENNA, Aug 17—An international corn and seed market has been opened here.

Ministerial Defeat.

PESTH, Aug 17—The defeat of the government candidate at Nagy Kanissca and election by a large majority of a member of the extreme left, has shaken the Tisssa ministry to its foundation. The result will probably be a fusion between the government and moderate opposition.

Underhand Work.

LONDON, Aug. 17—The Daily News learns for some time past that large quantities of printed matter intended to excite Indian Mussulmans against the British government have been sent from Pera to India. The attention of the government has been called to the circumstances indicating that these inflammatory publications have been forwarded with the knowledge of the porte.

Indian Sentiment on Afghan Movements.

CALCUTTA, Aug 17—It is almost universal opinion in India that the action of the government in simultaneously evacuating Cabul and sending Gen Roberts on his hazardous march to Candahar, is unwise and rash in the extreme.

The Turkish Style.

BERLIN Aug 17—A lady of the sultan's harem who took refuge in the British embassy at Constantinople and was subsequently surrendered, has been strangled as an accomplice in the palace conspiracy.

Alexander of Bulgaria gets a Fall

Prince Alexander of Bulgaria was thrown from his carriage to-day and received serious injuries.

Troops for Afghanistan.

PORTSMOUTH Aug 17—Nine hundred and fifteen soldiers left to-day for Afghanistan.

Turkey makes a Request

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug 17—Ambassadors have forwarded to their respective governments a request of the minister of foreign affairs to prolong for twenty four days the time granted for settlement of the Montenegrin question, and to assent to a modification of the Dulcigno project. Abeddin Pasha proposes that Turkey keep Dinoche and Gruda and that some other compensation be accorded.

Afghanistan.

QUETTAH, Aug 17—The wire was cut just after details of the repulse of Afghans at Kuch were received although the defeat of tribesmen appears complete. Reinforcements have been sent in case further attacks are made. Messengers from Gen. Phayre to Candahar have returned, unable to enter the city. A siege has begun in earnest. A heavy and continuous fire is kept up on both sides. Ayoob Khan is attacking with two forces. Large numbers of men are pushing forward trenches towards the walls. Messengers deny that the Heratis have deserted Ayoob.

Gen Roberts has thirty days' supplies for the march to Candahar.

The Vatican.

ROME, Aug 17—The pope will hold a consistory Friday next, when he will nominate a number of Italian, Spanish and transatlantic bishops and archbishops.

Bad Crops in Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 17—In consequence of a general bad harvest in Germany there has been a renewal of agitation for the prohibition of export of corn.

DeLesseps' Scheme.

PARIS Aug 17—American objections to the Panama canal waived, and neutralization of canal under the guardianship of the United States accepted. DeLesseps wishes to issue 600,000,000 francs in shares here and in London, New York and Frankfort.

THE PACIFIC COAST.

CALIFORNIA.

Burned to Death.

ST HELENA, Aug 17—The residence of Mr. Richwagon, two miles from town, was found in ashes this morning, and the remains of an occupant in the ruins. Nothing is known regarding the circumstances.

AGAIN IN ASHES.

Half of Eureka, Nevada, Swept Away by Fire.

(SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.)

EUREKA, Aug. 17—At 10 o'clock this morning a fire broke out on the east side of Main street just south of the Odd Fellows' building. It spread rapidly and traveled over substantially the same ground as the great fire of a year ago. The loss is even more, as the buildings were better and newer. The fire extended south on Main street to Gold street, and swept everything to the northward. The wind was blowing a gale. Among the prominent buildings and institutions destroyed may be mentioned the following: Maus's brewery, Leader printing office, Odd Fellows building, Jackson House, gutted but standing, International Hotel, theater and all intervening buildings save Paxton & Co's bank, Richard Folley's building and Jack Perry's corner. It is impossible to form any estimate of losses but the amount must be about $1,000,000. All of the private residences on Spring Bnel and Paul streets north of the Episcopal church were consumed. There can be no doubt that many families are left destitute.

The Situation at Eureka.

A dispatch from Eureka, Nevada, says that the telegraph office which was burnt out has opened at the railroad depot, almost a mile from town. Heat and dust and cinders in the burnt district are almost unbearable. The fire is a larger one than that of a year ago. The Daily Leader is a total loss. The people in the burnt section are greatly discouraged. Many were still in debt from the last fire. It is a heavy blow on the town.

NEVADA.

Work on the Comstock.

VIRGINIA, Aug 17—Two crosscuts have been started east of the 2500 of Union, but new switches and timbers are going in. This work will take two or three days so that not much will be done in the crosscuts this week.

ARIZONA.

The Magdalena Affair.

[illegible], Aug. 17—A passenger by the Magdalena [illegible] denies that Reyes ordered the execution of any one at Magdalena but says that he bled the inhabitants to the tune of between $4000 and $5000.

As it Appears to the "Herald."

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—The Herald, commenting on the Connecticut republican convention says: A more admirable example of the subordination of personal rivalries to the general welfare of a party seldom is witnessed in practical politics than that which occurred yesterday at Hartford. There as in Indiana and every other doubtful state the republicans appear to be shaping and managing their canvass with more skill than their adversaries.

Speaking of the Alabama election the New York World makes the unfortunate remark that the first gun from the south is double shotted, which being interpreted means that the ballot boxes in Alabama were evidently stuffed twice when once was all that was necessary.

GRAND DAY OF THE CONCLAVE AT CHICAGO

Twenty Thousand Knights Templar in Line—The City Jammed with Visitors

Programme of the Procession—Etc, Etc

CHICAGO, Aug 17—At Merrimac hall this evening, Lieut Gov Shuman referred to the occupation of Palestine by the crusaders and said that the reception given them by the faithful of that land was not more cordial than is that of this state and its chief city of the Knights Templar to-night. Further were none more brave, manly and devoted patriots than the knights of old. He added the hope that the visiting commanderies would realize the complete fulfillment of their anticipations of pleasure and profit.

At Farwell hall Mr Leonard Swett, representing Governor Cullom, referred to the antiquity of the Masonic order tracing their history through the centuries. They were the great builders of the past who had strewn every battlefield of Europe which had left an indelible [illegible] upon the customs, morals, architecture and character [illegible] of the nations of the globe. Masonry stood like the book of older order than the church of Rome. It was without nationality and was like a star in its surroundings and origin unknown but gleaming out of the dark ages upon the brow of night and irradiating the whole world. Misery had left its mark on the ages which in turn had moulded it and changed its arms. The struggle was no longer for the holy sepulchre, but the cross is simply an advance of everything which retards the development of mankind or degrades man and instead of rolling the stone from the sepulchre the knight called forth and builds truth upon truth, each mightier than all the works of the sword.

A large share of the commanderies are in the city having arrived mostly during the afternoon and evening. The railroads have emptied their human freight into the depots with inconceivable rapidity to-day. It is said that since an early hour this morning the arrivals of trains on all the roads combined has been at the rate of one train every five minutes. From 4 to 8 o'clock this evening thirteen trains arrived over the Rock Island railroad, and probably as many or more over each of the other roads. Every train brings as many passengers as can crowd in the cars or get seats on the platform. The only limit to the influx is the ability of railroads to carry all who apply for tickets. The managers of railroads estimate that up to midnight they have brought in over 200,000 people and as the trains are still arriving and will continue to come all night, it is probable that a far greater number of people will be here to-morrow than has been expected. The crowd on the streets is larger than at any time before this year which has been a year of large crowds in Chicago. Haverly's and McVicker's theaters to-night were packed almost to the point of danger, thousands being turned away long before the performance began. The three halls in which receptions were held were overflowing with enthusiastic audiences including many ladies. The hotels are full and the illuminations upon the streets are especially fine and are almost universal. The exposition building is a blaze of light.

The Grand Parade

The great day of the triennial conclave of Knights Templar opened cloudy. Early in the morning a smart rain fell and laid the dust nicely. The sun then appeared and at the hour advertised for starting everything was favorable for the procession. The different commanderies were however tardy in getting at their appointed places and it was nearly 11 before the different columns moved. By this time the sky had clouded and some drops of rain fell. It had no effect, however, on the crowds who thronged the streets and occupied every available inch of space on sidewalks. The windows were filled shortly after 8 o'clock and many people occupied precarious positions on the cross arms of the telegraph poles. The committee had wisely made the line of march to extend over nearly eight miles, giving a fine opportunity for all to see. Along Wabash avenue thousands of temporary seats had been erected and were readily rented at good prices. Decorations were on a profuse and almost extravagant scale, nearly every house displaying banners with Masonic devices, while evergreen wreaths and richly contrasting colors relieved the sombre buck of the buildings and the quantity of black required to appropriately represent the historical subjects connected with the display of the conclave. The newspaper offices were beautifully decorated especially those which were in the direct line of march. Wholesale houses and the more important retail stores were covered with banners, flags, festoons and mottoes. Along State street the stores were radiant with devices, several thousand dollars having been expended on some single buildings, while the sixteen arches on Wabash avenue between Van Buren and Twenty-second streets were completed during the night and excited great admiration for their unanimity of design and diverse figures. The line of march was kept open by a strong guard of policemen, who flanked the streets and who were assisted by continuous lines of vehicles which were ranged on either side of the street and occupied by thousands of spectators. There were apparently endless crowds in the streets, and incoming trains continued to bring from outside towns and cities multitudes of visitors. The knights gathered on four streets facing east. The division on Lake street, the one farthest north, moved first eastward to Wabash avenue, and on reaching that thoroughfare turned south and continued the march to Twenty first street. As the last of this division reached Washington street a column in that street fell into line and followed to Twenty-first street. The same was done with the columns in Monroe and Jackson streets.

Grand jurisdictions of Massachusetts Rhode Island New York, Virginia, Vermont District of Columbia, Connecticut Ohio, Kentucky Maine Pennsylvania Indiana, Texas, Michigan Mississippi California, Tennessee Wisconsin New Jersey, Georgia, Missouri New Hampshire Louisiana Iowa Minnesota, Kansas Maryland, Nebraska, Arkansas, West Virginia, Colorado and Wyoming territory, and other distinguished Knights in carriages.

It was afternoon when the last division wheeled into line and by that time the advance guard of police who headed the procession had reached Lake street on the return march. It was estimated that nearly 20,000 knights were in line and it required three hours for the procession to pass a given point. Every part of the parade went off with a precision that is only attained by the best drilled corps and the evolutions were performed with beautiful effect.

The streets were finely managed there being no interference with the line of march. Much dissatisfaction was expressed when it appeared that before the line of march was completed almost the entire body broke ranks and went to their tents. This was particularly unsatisfactory to many thousands of people who occupied advantageous positions in the latter part of the line of march for which they had paid extravagant prices in some cases.

THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

There is still a great deal of snow on both sides of the Cascade mountains along the Lebanon route much of which will probably not melt this season.

From 1000 to 1200 bushels of wheat arrived daily during last week at Kinney Bros mills, Salem. The quality is very superior, and the price paid is 85 cents, cash.

The Capital Flouring Mills Co, Salem says the Statesman, have completed their new race, by which they will be enabled to do away with the mill-pond which has been objectionable to residents in the vicinity on account of its supposed tendency to cause sickness.

Eastern Oregon.

Baker county paid $163 for keeping her paupers and $112 for the insane last year.

The new hotel in Pendleton will be opened for the reception of guests early in September.

Within the last four weeks, about 20,000 head of sheep have been taken into Haystack valley, Grant county, from Wasco and Umatilla counties.

The Monumental mine has suspended operations for a short time for necessary repairs on machinery. Three silver bricks, weighing respectively $1681, $1631 and $1582, were sent in to Pendleton from that mine last week.

The improvements on the M. E church and the fine new parsonage at the Dalles have cost $4000. The sum of $1987 was pledged last Sunday toward paying off the indebtedness incurred, leaving of the whole amount only about $300 unpledged, as the work was begun with a capital of $2000.

Grant county News: Mining men are now turning their attention to Canyon creek hills, and some excellent rock has been discovered. It is a fact patent to all that the mountains for miles around in this vicinity have never been prospected and it is also known that no better placer mines were ever worked in Oregon than the "Canyon creek mines," of Grant county, hence it is safe to predict that at no distant day the outside world will hear that some of the most valuable quartz ledges in existence have been found near this place.

The Way to Reconciliation

[From the Boston Advertiser.]

There will be reconciliation prompt and complete between the north and south as soon as the south gives proof of a purpose to be faithful to the spirit of free republican institutions and of submitting in good faith to the government of the majority, fairly ascertained.

SECRETARY SCHURZ.

HIS GREAT SPEECH AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Masterly Oration and Argument Clearly and Concisely Defining the Claims of the Republican Party and Exposing the Inconsistencies of the Democracy.

[illegible] the [illegible] Secretary Schurz's [illegible] Indianapolis on the 26th of July. His reception [illegible] and the audience which [illegible] was pronounced one of the [illegible] and largest [illegible] gathered in that city.

[illegible] passions [illegible] reason, and without any resort to the arts of oratory, give you a plain practical talk. The language of party warfare is apt [illegible] for the purpose of producing strong impressions. The [illegible] will obtain from them [illegible] say at the outset that for that I do not agree with those who speak of the present moment as the greatest crisis in the history of American affairs. The questions we have to dispose of are not those of immediate life and death, but the bearing they have upon the future welfare of the nation and upon those interests which most affect us is important enough to make us consider well what we are doing to call for our best judgment and a strenuous effort to put that judgment into execution.

WHAT DO WE WANT?

In the first place we want to make it clear in our own minds what we want. The answer is in a general term that we want good government, that if we have it we must endeavor to keep it and if we have not, we must endeavor to get it. What is good government? We may answer again in general terms, that it is a government which well understands the public business, and understanding it transacts it within the limits of its constitutional power intelligently, honestly and justly. The second question we have to answer to ourselves is how far the government we have comes up to these requisites, how far the principle upon which it acts the methods it employs the aims it pursues, and the degree of efficiency it develops answer the public need, and how far in this respect we ought to preserve what we have or look for other things we have not.

THE RECORD

As a member of the present administration now on the point of yielding its power into the hands of a new set of public servants, I may be permitted to appeal to the candid judgment of the American people as to the manner in which the public business has been conducted during the past three years. While it might be natural that, bearing a part of the responsibility myself, I should be inclined to take a favorable view of its performances, still I think my ways of thinking are independent enough not to betray me into mere partisan eulogy. I think I am not exaggerating when I say that the fair minded men of the country will admit, and do admit in their hearts to-day, that, on the whole the public business has been conducted by

THIS ADMINISTRATION,

As far as it was in its control, honestly, intelligently and successfully. I should be the last man to claim perfection for it, for as one of those who had an opportunity to watch affairs in detail, I am well aware of errors committed and of failures suffered in this and that respect. No administration ever has been or ever will be free from them. It has maintained the public faith and raised the credit of the United States to a point never reached before. It has with consistent energy followed a policy relieving the country of the evils of an irrational and dangerous money system, and greatly promoted the prosperity of the people by the restoration of specie payments. It has funded enormous masses of the national indebtedness at a lower interest and thus saved many millions a year to the taxpayer. It has faithfully executed the laws with a conscientious observance of sound constitutional principles. By its fidelity to these constitutional principles it has removed many obstacles which stood in the way of a friendly understanding between the different sections of the country and different classes of the people. It has, under trying circumstances, when the public peace was disturbed by riot and violence on the part of a numerous class of citizens, greatly aided the restoration of order and security by a calm and moderate employment of the limited power at its command, without in any case resorting to a doubtful stretch of authority. It has

REFORMED MANY ABUSES

In the public service, infused a higher sense of duty into its different branches, raised its moral tone, increased its efficiency, punished dishonesty and kept the service unsullied by the scandals arising from lax notions of official integrity. In saying this I am not unmindful of the fact that the reform of the public service has not overcome in so high a degree as was intended and was desirable the obstacles opposing it in the shape of inveterate political habit and antagonistic interest. The service is now showing a greater degree of efficiency, a higher moral spirit and a stronger sense of duty than has prevailed perhaps at any time since the period when the administrative machinery was demoralized by the introduction of the spoils system. It has in many of its branches introduced rules and methods which have borne excellent fruit, and are capable of the most beneficent development if further carried on by coming administrations in sympathy with them. Everybody sees reason to look hopefully into the future provided the conduct of our public affairs remains as good as it has been.

THE PARTIES AND CANDIDATES

We have to deal with two parties and their candidates. The republican party with James A Garfield at its head, and the democratic party, with General Hancock. I do not deem it necessary to discuss the possibility of the victory of the greenback party and their nominees for the simple reason that their chances of success are not perceptible to the ordinary eye, and that their organization may be looked upon as a mere tender to the democratic party. I wish to state the question mildly for I am not partisan enough—indeed, my orthodoxy in that respect has now and then been questioned—to deal in wholesale and indiscriminate denunciation of our opponents. I do not mean to incite your prejudices and inflame your passions, but to discuss facts and draw from them legitimate conclusions. I do not want the party to which I belong to depend for success upon the failings of its opponents and I am therefore, not inclined to exaggerate them. In this respect, therefore, I sincerely declare that I wish well the democratic party. I once participated in an attempt, which attempt miscarried, to move it up to the progressive requirements of the times. The contending political parties in a republic should be such in point of mental and moral constitution and capability that the government may be entrusted to either without any serious apprehension for the safety of the public interest. Since the downfall and disappearance of the [illegible] power [illegible] political interest, from which the democratic party, more than twenty years ago, derived its morals, its logic, its political skill and statesmanship that party has been

FLOUNDERING ABOUT

Out of logical connection with any question [illegible] the day, never knowing the aim of the day [illegible] always looking for something to turn up, and when something did turn up, spoiling it lamely lagging in the rear of the events and requirements of the day, always behind, denouncing as impossible things that were already accomplished facts with a strange [illegible] the future [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] elements and then committing blunder after blunder which at the moment of their birth it uniformly glorified as great strokes of policy [illegible] in the secession movement in [illegible] down to the nomination of General Hancock in 1880.

It is not my habit to [illegible] the past dead and to substitute for the living questions of the present [illegible] but if we want to ascertain the prevailing tendencies and the present capability for good government of the democratic party in accordance with the spirit and requirements of the present [illegible] not unfair [illegible] illustrations.

Looking back to the year 1864 the fourth year of the civil war when the southern [illegible] was near the exhaustion of its resources we find the democratic party in national convention [illegible] [illegible] than [illegible]

THE [illegible]

Was [illegible] the [illegible] restoration [illegible] and the democracy was for [illegible] war was [illegible]

[illegible]

also the necessity, and has turned out a blessing. The democrats are compelled to admit their

EATING ITS WORDS

[illegible] measure [illegible] and fifteenth amendments [illegible]

When the republicans in [illegible] the restoration of specie payment was [illegible] the democratic party in its national convention of 1876 thought it a smart thing to declare that the act passed for bringing to the payments was an impediment in its way and must be repealed. And who is there to-day now that [illegible] repealed under the [illegible] the illusion of our financial policy [illegible] would have prolonged the evils of an irredeemable paper currency under which we were [illegible]

And now in this year of 1880, when the war issues are fairly behind us, when by its conciliatory spirit and its strict observance of constitutional principles the government has removed all the elements of discord between the two sections which it was in its power to remove, when aided by a wise and successful financial policy general prosperity is again blessing the land and when the people look above all things for enlightened practical statesmanship that well understands the questions it has to deal with to foster and develop that prosperity, now the democratic party knows nothing better to do than to set aside all its statesmen of known and settled opinions political experience and training and to nominate for the presidency a major-general of the regular army, a professional soldier who has never been anything else but that and who from the nature and necessities of his profession has always stood aloof from the management of political questions.

GENERAL HANCOCK.

I certainly shall not attempt to depreciate the character of General Hancock and the great service he has rendered to the country. But the question is not whether we shall honor a deserving general. The question is whether that deserving general would be the kind of a president the country needs—a president who can be depended upon to successfully solve the problems of statesmanship which are now before us, to preserve the good things already done and improve upon them. To lead battalions of brave men against a fortified position, or to win a campaign by a dashing manœuver is one thing; to regulate the finances of the country in such a way that the blessings of a sound currency may be permanently secured to us, to develop our commercial opportunities, to organize the civil service in such a manner that it may conduct the public business upon sound business principles, is another, and in the latter case, the brave spirit which storms hostile batteries and lays low invading hosts does not appear in the first line of importance. I cannot impress it too strongly on your minds that there can be no greater difference than that between the handling of troops in a campaign and the handling of the political forces of a great people and the handling of the political affairs of a great government.

IT MUST NOT BE FORGOTTEN

That this government is no longer the simple machinery it was in the early days of the republic. The bucolic age of America is over. The interests the government has to deal with are no longer those of a small number of agricultural communities, with here and there a commercial town. They are the interests of nearly 50,000,000 of people, spread over an immense surface, with occupations, pursuits and industries of endless variety and great magnitude, large cities with elements of population scarcely known here in the early days, and all these producing aspirations and interests so pushing powerful and complicated in their nature and so constantly appealing to the government rightfully or wrongfully, that the requirements of statesmanship demanded in this age are far different from those which sufficed a century ago.

PRESIDENTIAL DUTIES

If all the president had to do were to select seven men who agree with him as to the principal objects to be accomplished, and then consult and agree with them about the means to be used, undisturbed by the pressure of outside forces, it would, indeed, be a comparatively easy and comfortable thing. But the fact is that the president of the United States, by the very nature of his position, is obliged to spend far more time in listening to the advice and wishes and the urgency of men outside his cabinet than to his consultations with cabinet ministers themselves. The opposition he may encounter from the opposing party in congress and in the press is in most cases the least of the difficulties he has to contend with. The greatest puzzles that are apt to perplex and sometimes overwhelm his mind come from his party, who have a claim upon his attention and insist to have that claim respected. Not only upon the great measures of his administration, but upon every detail, the advice of the members of his party, especially those in congress, is urged upon him with all imaginable sorts of motive. There is scarcely an appointment he has to make, there is certainly not a reform he wants to execute, that he will not have to carry through a siege and storm of opposing wishes and interests. Every object he pursues will run counter to the wishes of not only his opponents, but some of his friends; every reform, the execution of which may appear to him desirable,

WILL TREAD UPON THE TOES

Of somebody whose interests lie in the abuse to be reformed, or who has a friend to protect who is connected with it, and all these pleas, representations, remonstrances, urgencies and pressures go to the president, not through members of the cabinet, but behind their backs, and it is a matter of long and varied experience that unless the president himself has a sufficient knowledge of affairs, a clear eye to see through arguments and motives, and that temper and skill which is necessary to resist without offending, and to conciliate without giving up his objects, he will be invariably be run over and lamentably fail. I speak from experience when I say that most of the good things that have been done under this administration, whatever merit the respective cabinet ministers may deserve for them, are no less due to the clear headed and faithful support, frequently called the "amiable obstinacy," with which President Hayes stood behind them by warding off the opposition. It is for such reasons of inestimable benefit to an administration that the president himself should have had the experience of active work in legislative bodies, and especially in the congress of the United States.

HE BELONGS TO THE ARMY

Now put, for the sake of argument, in that most trying position, General Hancock, or any man trained exclusively in the walks of army life, of which he is so conspicuous an ornament—I mean a man not endowed with that intuitive genius which I have spoken of, and which his most ardent friends, as I understand, do not claim for General Hancock. What has there been in the school of his past life to fit him for it? As a boy he was accepted by the government as a cadet at West Point, and that was his college and university. I have high respect for that school. Every branch of military science is taught there. I have no doubt with knowledge skill and success [illegible] honor and the [illegible] the guiding stars of the future life of the student. The affairs of ordinary human existence [illegible] the military profession, and the problems it has to deal with, are necessarily treated as matters of secondary moment. Our military school at West Point has given us many glorious soldiers who have adorned the history of the country [illegible] That [illegible] the young man entered the regular army. Of all classes of our society I may [illegible] that the regular army is the most exclusive [illegible] separated from the ordinary [illegible] life of the people in point of sympathy [illegible] It may be said without exaggeration, that [illegible] one by taking an old regular army [illegible] never been anything else and [illegible] the most difficult political post [illegible] spoil an excellent general in [illegible]

A POOR PRESIDENT

[illegible] with an honest intention trying to [illegible] and to serve his country. Problems of [illegible] suddenly rise up before him [illegible] of revenue, of commercial policy, not [illegible] of general maxims and vague principles [illegible] in the mysterious shape of practical [illegible] to be applied to a given state of [illegible] questions of party politics where the interests of the public and of the parties are curiously mixed together in bewildering confusion. [illegible] man at the head of affairs means to do [illegible] let us some his cabinet officers near the [illegible] But now a [illegible] representatives [illegible] prominent leaders from all parts of the [illegible] swarm [illegible] him. Having [illegible] contact with the workings of [illegible] having stood [illegible] political management

We have therefore it in full. As a sober and powerful t it will not be surpassed, if indeed it lled, in the present contest. It is an of reason to reason, and the well political independence of Mr Schurz, who on occasion has courage to from the position of his own party ose its candidates, will enhance the this speech on non-partisan minds urz is more than a mere speaker or His reasoning is that of a statesman, sents his arguments with an insight tendencies of parties, with the com- dignity of truth, and with the sub- gth of persuasive logic. Every para an example of comprehensive yet nd clear statement. The speech, we may be presented as almost the only required for the campaign.

l Hancock says the constitutional ents are "inviolable," and that in tingency of his election he should his duty to resist with all his power empt to evade their full force and From what quarter should such an " be anticipated or feared? Only own party It has pronounced the ents revolutionary and void, and mted to overthrow them In case mpt' which he seems to expect be de, his duty to "resist" it will bring conflict with his party What will result? Will he surrender to his r will it carry over his head poses he seems to antic pate? ople may reflect that it would safer and better way to avoid possible embarrassments by leaving Hancock to his military command ing General Garfield at the head of rnment. In that case the country assured that no "attempt" like that t by General Hancock will be made ther that all disturbing questions ould grow out of radical political re ill be avoided.

l Manager Sargent of the Northern egards the report that Gould is about a branch of the Union Pacific to the o thwest to head off the Northern from the northwestern business it as a story put in circulation to bear n Pacific stock, which is now enjoy- boom " but he says the report has y failed of its object, as prices of that ve not been affected by it. Mr Sar alizes his opinion however by say he supposes Gould will have to me effort to get business for his line he northwest but that people will over a narrow gauge h t ah Northern 500 miles south to take a train east when they have a direct line at hand The Northern Pacific will in Mr Sargent's opin ion have all the business it can accommodate when it is finished and the company have no fear of any of Gould's projected maneuvers

It is bruited about that an effort will be made to secure an act of "amnesty and for giveness for Mr Chadwick at the coming session of the legislature It will be suggest ed in his behalf that his illegal drafts on the treasury were unintentional, that the law was obscure and that this that and the other thing should secure his exculpation But there will probably be some trouble in get- ting the legislature to condone fraud, as the late Mr Tilden used to remark Mr Chadwick will have to go without his white- wash

It is the judgment of the New York Herald that the republicans are shaping and man aging their canvass with more skill than their adversaries' It is evident that the republi cans in this contest are going to put forth an effort equal to any they have ever made Stalwarts independents and all are united in a common cause realizing that the present contest is for a victory to save the fruits of all preceding efforts

PACIFIC MUTUAL

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

OF CALIFORNIA.

SACRAMENTO, July 1st 1880

To all Desirous of Securing the Benefits of Life Insurance:

The first consideration with applicants for life insurance is, or at least should be SAFETY Will the Money Paid out for the Policy be Prudently Invested? Are the Affairs of the Company Honestly and Efficiently Administered? When the Policy Becomes a Claim, will it be Promptly Paid, and thus the object which induced the payment of the premiums be fully attained? These are queries naturally suggested, and the character of the answers determines the course of the questioner and the selection of his Company

In this connection, the Managers of the PACIFIC MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPA- NY respectfully beg leave to submit the following facts and statements concerning their Company

1 Since its organization A D 1868 it has paid 353 death losses, on policies amounting in the aggre- grate to $902 975.

2 It has Paid to Policy Holders, for Matured Endowments, Dividends, and Surrender Values, in Round Numbers, $1,000,000.

3. Its losses have been paid Promptly and without Litigation. No judgment arising from a Policy claim has ever been rendered against it and it has no suits of this character pending

4 It has repeatedly been examined by Sworn Experts, and most thorough and searching investigations made of its condition and business, and IN EVERY CASE its Solvency and Trust- worthiness have been Demonstrated.

5 Its stockholders and Directors are widely known as among the most capable business men and ablest financiers of the State of California and the integrity of their management is unquestioned

6 The laws of the State including the constitutional provisions affecting corporations, are of the most rigid character such as to make the Company one of the safest institutions of its kind

Section 3 of Article XII of the NEW CONSTITUTION of the State of California is as follows

SEC. 3 Each stockholder of a corporation or joint stock association shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association The Directors or Trustees of cor- porations and joint stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stock holders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint stock association during the term of office of such Director or Trustee

7 Its policy contracts contain no restrictions upon residence or travel and its forms of insur- ance are unusually attractive The Low Rate Deposit Endowment and Mutual Investment Policies are peculiar to this Company and offer advantages to the insured which are not surpassed if equaled by those of any other Company

8 When desired Policies can be registered by the Insurance Commissioners of California on the payment of a moderate fee, and a policy holder in the PACIFIC MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY of California has then the absolute guarantee of the State of California that the money held by this Company against the contingency of his death is secured by bonds and mortgages deposited in the State Treasury With December 31st 1879 the Company closed its eleventh year, and in so doing affords the only instance on record in which a life insurance company in the eleventh year of its existence was enabled to pay its death losses from interest receipts not only was this done but in addition thereto a considerable surplus remained

Believing ourselves entitled to the confidence and business of such as propose effecting insurance upon human life we solicit their patronage and pledge ourselves to discharge to the best of our ability the important and sacred trust devolved upon us

Death of Miss Clawson—Miss M Emma Clawson, who was at one time connected with the public schools of Portland died yesterday at the residence of her mother on Eighth street after a long and lingering illness. Miss Clawson came to Portland in the spring of 1876 In September of that year she was appointed one of the teachers in the Harrison street school She filled the posi- tion to the entire satisfaction of all—direct ors teachers and pupils Failing health, however, compelled the lady to resign the position in the spring of 1877 Since that time Miss Clawson has been an invalid her ailment being a complication of dyspepsia and spinal complaint. She bore her suffer- ings with patient resignation, a murmur rarely escaping her lips She was a lady of rare intellectual accomplishments and great- ly respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances Her death will be sincerely regretted by all with whom she was acquaint- ed. Her age was 29 To-morrow morning the remains will be conveyed to Salem for interment

The Proper Course.—It seems that Port- land is not the only place afflicted by vags and tramps Recently a number of the "sub- stratum" of society collected in and about the Dalles until the patience of the good citi- zens of that place became exhausted, and the attention of the authorities was called to the rapidly augmenting nuisance The authori- ties went quietly around and obtained the names of 42 persons—embracing the most prominent vags, tramps, petty thieves and roughs These names were posted up in some conspicuous place in the city, where every- body would see them Appended to the list was a polite notice by the officers of the law that the society of these fellows was not de- sired and they were invited to shake Dalles dust from their restless soles. It is needless to add that they "shook" at once. If the police authorities of Portland were to issue a similar manifesto, and enforce it, public safe- ty and good morals would be greatly pro- moted.

"Love's Young Dream"—A few days ago a marriage was celebrated at Hillsboro the high contracting parties being far advanced toward the "sere and yellow leaf" We have not been able to learn the names of the par- ties but their ages, respective and collective will be of more interest to the marriageable public than the cognomen The blushing bride had passed 64 summers and had never before embarked on the tempestuous sea of matrimony Over the head of the happy groom 63 summers had passed Being a wid- ower he stood the ordeal with true Roman courage and at the conclusion of the cere- mony he sprang nimbly over the broomstick and kissed the bride. Here is an example worthy of emulation and young people should profit by it

Improving the Poor Farm.—The county commissioners determined a few weeks ago to construct an addition to the building which stands on the poor farm in order to accommodate the numerous inmates. Ac- cordingly the other day the contract for the foundation of the new building was awarded to W. H. Courtney. Excavation was com menced at once and in a few days the found ation will be completed. The addition will be of wood, 36 by 60 feet, and two stories high No contract will be awarded for the construction of this building. The county commissioners will hire a competent mechan ic who will employ a force of carpenters and pay them by the day

The New Collector—The bond of Mr F. H. Shurtleff the newly appointed collector of customs, was forwarded to Washington City several days ago for approval by the depart ment His commission is en route and he will probably assume the duties of the office before September 1st. His experience in the office as chief deputy for many years, com bined with executive ability of no low order, renders Mr Shurtleff's appointment a fitting one and there is no doubt that affairs will be administered in a thorough business-like and honest manner

Stay of Execution—Judge Stott has granted a stay of execution in the case of Henry Wintzingerode, who is under sentence of death, until the case can be appealed to the supreme court Young Wintzingerode was to have been hanged on Friday, August 6th, but was granted a respite by Governor Thayer until August 20th Had Judge Stott declined to grant a stay of execution Wintz ingerode would have had to expiate his crime on the gallows next Friday, but as it now stands the condemned man has a new lease of life

CITY.

A Close Call.—Jack Shortell, a young man who acts as barkeeper in the saloon situated at the corner of Second and Alder streets, had a very narrow escape Monday evening. After closing the saloon, young Shortell repaired to a neighboring restaurant and called for lunch. Among other things the waiter brought some cold fowl. While devouring his lunch Shortell swallowed a sharp piece of chicken bone, which obstinately stuck crosswise in his throat. Every effort to be made to clear his throat proved unavailing. His throat soon commenced to swelling, and he became frightened. A physician was summoned, who, on making an examination, called in another physician for consultation. To remove the bone, it was found necessary to cut an incision in Shortell's throat, and inserting pair of delicate forceps, the doctors succeeded in removing the bone. The operation was a very difficult and dangerous one, but was performed in a skillful manner. It was a very close call for the young fellow, and he will probably be a little more careful in the future in eating cold fowl.

The county commissioners will hire a competent mechanic, who will employ a force of carpenters and pay them by the day.

The New Collector.—The bond of Mr. F. X. Shurtleff, the newly appointed collector of customs, was forwarded to Washington City several days ago for approval by the department. His commission is en route, and he will probably assume the duties of the office before September 1st. His experience in the office as chief deputy for many years, combined with executive ability of no low order, renders Mr. Shurtleff's appointment a fitting one, and there is no doubt that affairs will be administered in a thorough business-like and honest manner.

Stay of Execution.—Judge Stott has granted a stay of execution in the case of Henry Wintzingerode, who is under sentence of death, until the case can be appealed to the supreme court. Painful Mishap.—A drunken man named Richmond met with a very painful accident Monday afternoon on the railroad track just below the depot in East Portland. Richmond and a companion were each boasting of their strength when Richmond bet that he could lift one of the heavy rails. In attempting to perform the feat he slipped and fell, the heavy rail catching his left hand beneath it, mangling the flesh severely.

Drowned.—A boy, an inmate of the orphanage at Vancouver, whose name we understand to be James Quivley, was drowned in the Columbia, near Vancouver, last Sunday. He had been sent to drive home some cows and accidentally stepped off a steep bank. Two boys, who were with him, ran away when they saw him fall. The body was recovered the same afternoon.

Ran into a Dock.—The barkentine Webfoot, while landing at Allen & Lewis' dock yesterday afternoon, the Edith towing, Captain Gilman piloting, ran her bow into the dock, tearing away her flying jib boom, head gear and several stays. She tore a hole in the roof of the dock, and displaced a pile. The damage will amount to $200 or $300.

Democratic Club Meeting.—Last evening a meeting of the Hancock and English club was held at Raleigh's hall, corner of First and Stark streets. The meeting was well attended and quite enthusiastic, and was addressed by Judge W. W. Page, Dr. Brennan and others.

Large Tank.—The Oregon and California Railroad Company are constructing a large water tank at Albany depot to supply the locomotives on the main line and Lebanon branch. It will be supplied from the Santiam ditch instead of being pumped up from a well by an engine.

New Packing House.—A Chinese firm are fitting up the store 139 Front street with a set of rooms (double-deckers) for the accommodation of a score of Chinamen, who will revel, no doubt, in the luxury of opium smoking.

Seasonable time for imbibing choice beer and Molson's is just the kind.

Being called to account for the statement that a certain meeting was "a large and respectable one" when only one other person beside himself was present, a reporter insisted that what he had set down was literally true, "for," said he, "I was large and the other man was respectable."

Beneath a shady tree they sat,
He held her hand, she held his hat,
I held my breath and lay right flat,
They kissed, I saw them do it.
He held that kissing was no crime,
She held her head up every time,
I held my peace and wrote this rhyme
When they thought no one knew it.

The Price of Wheat.

The bountiful harvest ... in this country ... will ... the price of wheat to rule very low this season, but this will not lessen the demand for the Oregon Kidney Tea, as every man or woman who has experience of any trouble with the kidneys or urinary organs will try this well known remedy—even if wheat should be one very low price. Sold by all Druggists.

REPUBLICAN CLUB MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Garfield and Arthur club was held at the Young Men's Christian Association hall last night. The meeting was large and enthusiastic. After transacting some preliminary business pertaining to the club, Hon. M. C. George was introduced by President Waters as the speaker of the evening, and spoke for about an hour, earnestly, eloquently and ably presenting the issues of the campaign. He begun by calling attention to the importance of the privilege to be exercised by the citizens of this country in choosing the chief officers of the government, and the necessity of proper reflection in the performance of the duty. He then reviewed the election of 1876, showing conclusively by the number of votes cast that there had been gross intimidation practiced in the southern states at that election.

The census shows that the population of the southern states has increased, as well as that of the northern; yet while the northern states in 1876 showed a large increase of votes over 1874, the south showed an actual decrease; and all of these states went democratic. In many parishes in Louisiana where in 1872 and 1874 there were heavy republican majorities, in 1876 there was cast but a handful of republican votes.

He then reviewed the nominees of the democratic party since 1864, showing that they had been all made with the one idea of getting into power, and without regard to principle or party.

He compared the present nominees of the two parties, proving from the education, character and career of the men that Garfield was far more fit for the position than his competitor.

At the conclusion of Mr. George's speech, Gen. J. W. Sprague was called for by the audience.

The general responded in a magnetic speech of but a few minutes, but of sufficient length to arouse the crowd to a high state of enthusiasm. General Sprague has a magnificent presence, a fine voice, and a graceful delivery; and would make a splendid campaign orator. We hope he can be prevailed upon to again address the people of this city before the coming election.

NEWS NOTES FROM SCIO.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

SCIO, Aug. 16, 1880.

HOW TO TELL

Genuine Florida Water. The true Florida Water always comes with a little pamphlet wrapped around each bottle, and in the paper of this pamphlet are the words, "Lanman & Kemp, New York," water marked, or stamped in pale, transparent letters. Hold a leaf up to the light and if genuine you will see the above words. Do not buy if the words are not there, because it is not the real article. The water mark letters may be very pale, but by looking closely against the light you cannot fail to see them.

That Iron is Valuable as a Medicine has long been known, but it is only since its preparation in the particular form of Peruvian Syrup that its great power over disease has been brought to light. Its effect in cases of dyspepsia and debility is most salutary.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

No people in the world suffer as much with Dyspepsia as Americans. Although years of experience in medicine had failed to accomplish a certain and sure remedy for this disease and its effects, such as Sour Stomach, Heart burn, Water brash Sick Headache, Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Liver Complaint, coming up of the food, low spirits, general debility, etc., yet since the introduction of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER we believe there is no case of Dyspepsia that cannot be immediately relieved. 30,000 dozen sold last year without one case of failure reported. Go to your Druggist and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you. Regular size 75 cents.

We Challenge the World

When we say we believe we have evidence to prove that Shiloh's Consumption Cure is decidedly the best Lung Medicine made, inasmuch as it will cure a common Chronic Cough in one half the time, and relieve Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, and show more cases of Consumption cured than all others. It will cure where they fail; it is pleasant to take, harmless to the youngest child, and we guarantee what we say. Price 10 cents, 50 cents and $1. If your Lungs are sore, Chest or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by S. G. Skidmore & Co., druggists, 151 First street, Portland, Oregon.

NEWS NOTES FROM EUGENE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

EUGENE CITY, Aug. 17, 1880.

M. E. conference meets here to-morrow.

The sound of the hammer is heard early and late. Mr. Rankin, Judge Walton and Mrs. Coffin are engaged in building and remodeling houses.

Mr. Wes. Walton returned to-day from the Palouse, after several months' sojourning in that country, and has come to the conclusion that he likes the Willamette valley much better than the bunch grass region.

Hon. T. G. Hendricks, wife and family; Prof. Condon, wife and family; Mr. J. S. Lucky and wife; Hon. B. F. Dorris, wife and family; Mr. Stewart, Mr. Chapman and Mr. Townsend, returned this week from an extensive trip to the mountains.

The members of the M. E. church of this place have taken up a subscription to be applied toward the salary of Rev. I. D. Driver. Mr. Driver, with the consent of the conference, will remain in Eugene another year. Dr. Geary, of the Presbyterian; Rev. McLafferty, of the Baptist; Rev. Mr. Anderson, of the Episcopal; Rev. Mr. Woolly, of the Cumberland Presbyterian, and Rev. Monroe Hubbard, of the Christian denomination will have charge of the spiritual affairs of this community for the ensuing year.

On Sunday last, about 10:30 A. M., our town was thrown into considerable commotion, caused by an inmate of our county jail breaking through the wall and escaping. Our sheriff and deputy have taken the precaution to keep our "jail birds" locked up in iron cells during the night, but in day time allow them more privilege in the larger portion of the prison. Mr. Wise, the escaped prisoner, managed, while people were going to church and everything quiet, to remove a plank that connected with the door "jam," using it as a battering ram, and in about five seconds succeeded in making a hole large enough for a good size mule to pass through. An alarm was given and many persons started in pursuit of the fugitive, but up to this time have obtained no tidings of his whereabouts. The other prisoner was prevented from following his companion by a ball and chain attached to his leg. Lane county probably has had more jail breaking than any other county in the state, and has spent considerable money already in bringing back recaptured parties. In this matter no blame can be attached to our sheriff or his deputy, but is a matter of grave importance for our county judge and commissioners to consider.

NEWS NOTES FROM SALEM.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE.]

SALEM, August 17, 1880.

The condition of Mrs. A. F. Wheeler is still considered precarious.

Hon. Ed Hirsch, state treasurer, is just recovering from a severe attack of neuralgia.

Charles Uzafovage, Esq., is just recovering from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

The Garfield club of this city now numbers a membership of 365, which we claim entitles us to the "banner."

The untimely death of Miss Eva Burbank cast a gloom over this city where she was well and favorably known.

Harry C. Boyd and P. A. Marquam, Jr., of Portland, have been appointed notaries public by his excellency the governor.

Harry Babbitt, Esq., returned a few days since from a trip to Victoria, and reports having enjoyed his vacation amazingly.

Rev. J. F. Chambers, rector of the Episcopal church in this city, started for Astoria yesterday for a few days' recreation.

Mrs. A. B. Crossman has just returned from the classic shades of old Yamhill, where for several days past she has been rusticating.

Charles B. Moore, of Sheffield, Ill., who has lately arrived in this state, is stopping in Salem with a view of locating in this neighborhood.

Mrs. Adams and her daughter, Miss Laura Adams, of Victoria, are visiting friends in this city, making their home while here with Mrs. George A. Edes.

The mountain party from Salem, now encamped near Hennees' place, on the Santiam, numbers about 25 individuals, and they are having a jolly good time. They will probably return to the city on Saturday next.

Ask your grocer for the Oregon steam bakery oatmeal biscuit.

The mystery has been solved at last;
Our teeth no longer need decay,
All troubles of the mouth are past,
By SOZODONT they're swept away;
And young and old may smile secure
With lips and teeth so bright and pure.

Do You Believe It?

SPEECH OF SECRETARY SCHURZ

ment, the man at the head of the government the objective point of all their efforts. He has to meet a multitude of arguments put at him by a multitude of men from a hundred different motives all seeming to him important because all are to him new. Not a few among the most prominent of those who urge their opinions most strongly upon his mind trained and skilled by long practical schooling in all arts of covering up the weak points of their cases and concealing their motives by specious arguments and of making private interests appear those of the public. They have all contributed to his election and success; they are all entitled to his regard; he has heard of them all as prominent men entitled to respect; he has considered them all as men entitled to credit, and now he discovers that

THEIR OPINIONS CLASH

And that the claims are different and contradictory. Scores of them beseeching him with their urgency to make him believe that the cabinet minister he trusts, by the things he attempts to carry out is injuring the party upon whose permanence the life or at least the welfare of the republic depends. He has yet to learn that the senator in his state or the congressman in his district has interests of his own peculiar to himself; that those interests are sometimes not exactly those of the country or even those of the party at large; that the man who is recommended to him for high official position as a model citizen of the republic has attained that position, in the opinion of his backer, less by services rendered to the commonwealth than by services rendered to a person; that the same man will be represented to him by others, not as a model citizen, but as a villain who cannot be trusted a moment. He will be told that those who judge of political objects and means by which to attain them from a higher standpoint than mere personal or partisan interest are amiable theorists who are well enough in their way but are useless in the practical conduct of politics; that the practical politician who cares less for public questions, but is skilled in the management of men can alone be counted upon to preserve the power of his party and thereby the salvation of the republic. And when he has gone through this for weeks and months, and

HIS HEAD BEGINS TO SWIM

In the confusing contest of interests and ambitions entirely new to him, and he feels himself in many things he has done or left undone under a pressure giving him no rest of mind a helpless tool of foreign wills instead of being the director of things, he will then conclude that the repulse of the fiercest onset at Gettysburg and the taking of the angle of intrenchments in the Wilderness, glorious feats of arms were after all very simple things compared with this. And as he goes on and gradually the light of experience dawns upon him he finds himself unable to correct mistakes irretrievably made, and to redress injuries irremediably inflicted and to recover failures that have then become part of the history of the country he finally will see reason to wish that his friends had permitted him to enjoy his military renown in peace instead of casting over it a cloud of civil failure. But what is likely to happen to such a man elevated to the presidency with such a motley host upon his back as the democratic party is to-day?

DEMOCRACY OF THE SOUTH

That party as now constituted is indeed a wonderful mixture of elements. I shall certainly not question the convictions and motives of the enlightened and patriotic men that are in it who mean to do the best they can for the country with the means they have, but it is not unjust to them to say that many of them are undoubtedly not without their misgivings as to the latter and are held where they are by the strength of life long associations by the traditions of circles and constituencies within which they move and from which they have derived position and power, and also by the opinions grown from long struggles against what they considered and what in some cases may have been abuses on the other side. There is the southern element, of which I shall certainly not be inclined to deny that a marked improvement has taken place in temper and inspirations of many of its leading men who have cast the old ambitions of the war period behind them and now with a patriotic spirit are endeavoring to serve the country, and to whom therefore, our esteem is due. It is also true that they begin to be supported by a class of orderly and well meaning citizens, but it is not the less true that they find themselves hampered and clogged by the noisy factions in their constituencies, who, whether they are a majority or not, endeavor, and I am sorry to say in many instances successfully, to impress their temper upon the character of southern politics,

STILL SMARTING UNDER THE DEFEATS OF WAR,

And the losses which these defeats had brought upon them, some of them with a sullen feeling that these defeats were an insult as well as a wrong to them for which, in some way they must have satisfaction, with a vague desire to retrieve of the old condition of things something they do not know exactly what and withal insisting that something is due to them as southern men in politics, as well as society, and in their worldly fortunes as compared with the rest of mankind, rather reckless of the rights of others with financial ideas destitute of a due regard for the good faith of the country, inclined to fly to any money system which they vaguely think can be manipulated so as to make them rich again by legerdemain, deeming it due to them that large appropriations should be made for their particular benefit, for all imaginable purposes, good, bad and indifferent, merely to pour money into that section of the country with scarcely any traditions in government, except such as existed in their states before the war, and the reactionary desires and attempts of the party immediately after it with appetites sharpened by long exclusion from power and the sweets of office and greedy to make the most of that if they can obtain it.

THE NORTHERN DEMOCRACY.

There is the northern democracy, also with men of statesman like instincts in it and excellent intentions but behind them a large number of restless and ambitious politicians who, for twenty years, have been boxing the compass to find some principle or some policy, to avail themselves of some passion or some prejudice by which they might win an election and regain the possession of power. The democracy has had the misfortune of exercising a remarkable power of attraction for the adventurous, and even the dangerous elements of our population, and its attempts to regain power by all sorts of devices, and the advocacy of all sorts of principles and policies has gathered under its banner so many divergent tendencies and incongruous elements, held together by the only desire to regain the spoils of government, that when the party comes into power nobody can tell which element will be uppermost in strength and determine the current of its policy. We find there the hardest of hard money men hand in hand with the wildest of inflationists, the freest of free traders and the stiffest of protectionists. We find them in their platforms declaring for the restoration of specie payments to satisfy one part and the

REPEAL OF THE RESUMPTION LAW

In the same sentence to satisfy the other part of the organization. We find men who would scorn the idea of faithlessness to our national obligations in the closest alliance and co operation with those who repudiated their debts in their own states and who would not hesitate a moment to repudiate the debts of the republic. We find men sincerely desirous of cultivating among the southern people the heartiest sentiments of loyalty to the republic and respect for the rights of all, irrespective of color, and by their side men who still think that their own rights are worth nothing unless they are permitted to oppress the rights of others. Upon these different elements the official declarations of platforms have not the least effect. While the party in its national convention declares for specie payments that does not hinder a moment democratic congressmen from opposing resumption in congress, or the democrats in Ohio from nominating their inflation leader, General Ewing or the democrats in Indiana from nominating the fiat money man Landers for the governorship of those states nor does it prevent the democrats in many of the western and southern states from pursuing their greenback agitation as lustily as before.

INCONSISTENCY

While they declare for an observance of our national obligations, that does not hinder the democrats in many of the southern states from going on in their work of local repudiation, and declaring that local repudiation is so good a thing that it ought to be made general. Now consider that, if General Hancock can ever be elected, it must be a very hearty co-operation of all these elements—the greenback democrats in Ohio, Maine and Indiana, and the west and south, with the hard money men in New York, New Jersey and other states, the protectionists in one quarter and the free traders in another, the war democrats in the north and the reactionary elements elsewhere and to all these elements together General Hancock, if successful at all, will owe his success and all those elements, if the successful party is to be maintained in its strength and continued in power, must be satisfied in order to hold them together. That will be the situation and such the problem which the soldier to whom political science and management so far have been a sealed book will have to solve.

WHAT WILL HE DO

To satisfy the hard money men without driving the greenbackers away? What will he do to keep the greenbackers in the party without betraying the principles of the hard money men? How will he satisfy the southern element, that claims to have been robbed by an anti slavery war and at the same time keep the management of the government within the bounds of economy and protect the northern taxpayer? How will he content the southern men in the distribution of offices who will claim that they have furnished the majority of votes and are therefore entitled to the lion's share? And how will he keep the northern democracy in good spirits and in working order by a distribution of the patronage which will appease the hunger of twenty years? And these problems he will have to solve not in the quiet of the closet, surrounded by a few able counselors in peaceful consultation but quickly under the bewildering pressure of not a hundred but thousands of eager politicians, who fill the ear with babel of sound and with a pandemonium of conflicting ambitions. Let us see now what, in view of all this we have a right to expect from a democratic victory. Is it the maintenance of our public faith? While there are prominent opponents of repudiation in the democratic party it is a notorious fact that all the elements hostile to the constitutional discharge of our national obligations have also gathered under the same banner. Nearly all if not all the states that have repudiated or speak of

REPUDIATING THEIR OWN DEBTS

Are democratic states with heavy democratic majorities furnishing democratic electoral votes and congressmen. Who will tell me that it is certain they will be more conscientious with regard to the national debt than they showed themselves with regard to their own? Have we a right to expect a sound financial policy? While there are many good sound money men in the democratic party it is equally well known that the democratic party has irresistibly attracted to its fold a very large majority of the greenbackers inflationists and fiat money men. It has, indeed in its national platforms of late declared for sound money but in 1876 while it pronounced for resumption it demanded at the same time the repeal of the resumption law. What would have become of resumption had the resumption law been repealed? But while thus speaking of sound money in their national platforms is it not equally true in a large number of the states the most prominent inflationists are put forward for the highest honors followed by the masses of their party? So General Ewing, in Ohio, so General Butler, in Massachusetts, so Mr Landers in Indiana, while in many of the western and most of the southern states the democracy almost en masse represent unsound financial ideas. Is it not true that to the very last resumption was opposed in congress by democratic congressmen? Why when General Hancock was nominated the attraction for the greenbackers seemed so strong that the venerable Peter Cooper and General Sam Cary of Ohio were among the first to pay their devotion and wish him success.

FRUITS OF A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Now can anybody foretell what will happen in these respects in case of a democratic victory? In fact we do not know whether the advocates of the public faith or the repudiationists, whether the hard money men or the inflationists, are the strongest element in the democratic party throughout the country and which of these elements will control its policy. In voting the democratic ticket you will take a gambling chance that chance being rather against you. But one thing is certain that the democratic party in its fashion will reform the civil service. That it will certainly do. It will do it according to an old democratic principle "to the victors belong the spoils." That principle is of democratic origin and the democratic party has adhered to it with a fidelity worthy of the best cause. Other parties were infected by it but the democratic party may claim the glory of its paternity and of its most unswerving advocacy. When the democracy therefore speaks of a reform of the civil service, the meaning of that term in the light of history and of the tendencies at present prevailing, can be nothing else than that the reform shall consist in putting out all the republicans and putting all democrats in their places. How the north and south would shake over the bloody chasm filled with such good things?

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

I repeat it is an almost universally acknowledged fact that at present the public business is, on the whole well and honestly conducted in the government offices. The revenues are collected with remarkable fidelity and never in the history of the country has the loss in their collection been as small as now. In some of its branches it has almost entirely disappeared. The postal service is acknowledged to be more than ever ably, honestly and efficiently done. Even in those branches of the public service which more than others, have almost from the beginning of the government borne the reputation of being inefficient and corrupt, such as the land and especially the Indian service, cases of peculation and roguery have become comparatively rare and the general efficiency of officers is very much improved and I speak of this with assurance for the reason that I am conversant with the details. [Mr Schurz here gave in full detail the methods employed now in appointing to the civil service.] In spite of the imperfections of the methods followed the result has been that the public business is recognized to be conducted now in a more business like manner than before, and that the efficiency of the service has been lifted up to a much higher standard.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM

Now substitute for this the democratic reform making a clean sweep according to the old spoils system, and what will you have? Hundreds of thousands of politicians great and small, but all hungry rushing for 70,000 or 80,000 places, backed and pressed by every democratic congressman and every democratic committee in the land. This impetuous rush must be satisfied as rapidly as possible, for they want to make the best of their time and in this case as well as others, time is money. It is useless to disguise it, the masses of office seekers, starved for twenty years, will not be turned back as long as there is a mouthful on the table. Seventy or eighty thousand officers selected at random from that multitude of ravenous applicants, will be put into places held now mostly by men of tried capacity and experience. They must be taken at random, for it is impossible to fill so large a number of places in so short a time as the furious demand will permit in any other way. It is useless to say that the democratic party contains a sufficient number of men of ability and integrity to fill all those places. No doubt it does. But it is absolutely impossible for those who have

THE APPOINTING POWER,

Even if they were ever so well disposed, to make careful selections for so many thousand places in a short time, especially considering the fact that usually the least worthy applicants are among the most clamorous and the most skillful in securing the strongest political indorsements. Need I tell the taxpayers what such an experiment will cost? I am willing to assume that General Hancock entertains the best possible intentions and even that he may form for himself a plan of action intended to obviate these difficulties and disasters. He may possibly tell you so and mean what he says. Yet is it not obvious that, having no experience whatever in political life, he will be completely at the mercy of wind and waves and that there will be a power of wind in the Democratic victors clamoring for the spoils strong enough to upset the ingenuity of the firmest and most skilled politician in his party? No prudent citizen can fail to be repelled by such prospects unless equally great or greater dangers threaten from the other side.

LOOK AT THE OTHER SIDE.

Let us look at the other side. I am certainly not one of those who would assert that the republican party has been without fault. I have been one of its most unsparing critics and have been unsparingly criticised myself. The republican party has undoubtedly made a great many mistakes. I will not go back to the period of reconstruction and an abolished southern policy because that lies far behind us, and is not an issue in this campaign. Its constitutional results have become settlements accepted by both sides in profession at least, and the policy of force after the readmission of the late rebel states has, under this administration yielded to a scrupulous rule of constitutional principles. Neither would I deny that with regard to the question of the public debt at one time and to the currency question for a more extended period there was in the republican party an antagonism of opinions, a contest of conflicting ends. For a season the party seemed to stumble along with an uncertain gait; but it has always had an unerring instinct which in the end made it turn right side up, and then it kept right side up. When in 1869 the republican majority in congress declared for the payment of the public debt principal and interest, in coin, there was the end once and forever of

THE REPUDIATION MOVEMENT

Open and disguised, in the republican party. When in 1875 the republican majority in congress passed the resumption act, there was the end once and forever of the unredeemable paper money business in the republican party. Those who remained repudiationists or fiat money men did not remain republicans at least not the leaders of the party. They tried their luck for some time inside of it, then they left it and became independent greenbackers, and finally most of them landed in the democratic party as the democratic greenbackers, who for a time became independents mostly went back there. General Weaver and his followers are still in the intermediate state, but will no doubt finally materialize as sound democrats. But while the democratic party has been attracting such elements, the republican party has been either converting them to sound principles or ejecting them until they almost wholly disappeared among its component part. Thus it has become emphatically the protector of the national faith and the party of sound money. I have no doubt that the disagreements still existing upon financial subjects of minor importance in the republican party will be solved in the same way after mature discussion. In this way the republican party steadily progressing in an enlightened perception of the principles of sound finance has become the reliable sound money party of the country, to which as parties now are, the solution of new

FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

Can alone be safely trusted. And how magnificently do the effects of the results already achieved appear in the revival of our prosperity! Indeed not only in the traditions and good sense of the republican party do you find the best security there is at present for the sanctity of our national faith, as well as a successful management of the financial policy you find equal security in the known opinions and principles of its candidate James A Garfield. His convictions on these subjects have not found their first and best proclamation in the platform of his party or in his letter of acceptance. His record of nearly twenty years of congressional service is not a blank on the great questions of the times, like that of his opponent. There is not a phase of the question of our national obligations, there is not a point of financial policy from the first day that the subject was considered in congress since he became a member of that body to the present hour, that he has not discussed with an ability and strength a lucidity of argument, amplitude of knowledge and firmness of conviction placing him in the first rank of the defenders of sound principles. If you want to

STUDY THE REASONS

Why the public faith should be inviolably maintained why an irredeemable paper currency is and always has been a curse to all the economic interests of this and all other countries why confidence can be restored and maintained why business can obtain a healthy development, why foreign commerce can be most profitably conducted only with a money system of stable and intrinsic value you will find in the speeches of James A Garfield upon this the most instructive and convincing information. You will find there opinions not suddenly made up to order to suit an opportunity and the necessities of a candidate in an election, but the convictions of a lifetime carefully matured by conscientious research and large inquiry, and maintained with powerful reasons before they had become generally popular. You find there a teacher, statesman, and a leader in a great movement with principles so firmly grounded in his mind as well as his conscience that he would uphold them even were they not supported by a powerful party at his back. There is double assurance therefore in the traditions and acts of the party and in the character of the leader at its head. As to the civil service I have stated to you what in my opinion its condition is to day and that opinion accords, I think, with that of every fair minded observer. As to what it will become in case of

A REPUBLICAN VICTORY,

I shall not predict the millennium neither from the knowledge I have of the obstacles in the way of a permanent reform on sound principles nor from the party platform nor from the last utterance of the candidate. One thing however may be taken for certain the administrative machinery of the government will not be suddenly taken to pieces and be disorganized to be recomposed of raw material. In so far as it has shown itself honest and efficient, it will be preserved in its integrity and efficiency and upon the good foundation laid there is reason for assurance that it will be developed to greater perfection.

And now I appeal to the conservative citizens of the republic to you who desire the public faith sacredly maintained where will you go. Can you in view of the present circumstances, conscientiously go to the democratic party? You will indeed find there not a few men who think as you do but with them you will find closely allied in party interest all those elements to whom our national obligations are the football of momentary advantage. You will find on that side every state that has repudiated or speaks of repudiating its public debt; you will find there all those who decried the public creditor as the public enemy and whom no loyal tradition and [illegible] attaches to the [illegible]. You will find there a party inside of which the public faith has still

TO FIGHT A BATTLE

With its enemies without any certainty of its success. Is that your place. Or will you go to the republican side where the loyal maintenance of our public faith has become a fundamental principle universally adhered to with unswerving fidelity in spite of the gusts of adverse public sentiment in former days? And you who desire to preserve the fruits of the success gained in the abolition of the curse of an irredeemable paper money and the reestablishment of specie payments where will you go. Will you go to the democratic party where again you will find some who think as you do and yet with them as a powerful and perhaps the most numerous component part of the organization wielding commanding influence in a great many of the states subject to its control the great mass of the inflationists and fiat money men who were gathered under the democratic banner by a seemingly irresistible power of attraction and furnished many of the acknowledged leaders of that organization and who even now when the prosperity of the country has been so magnificently aided by a sound financial policy would be ready to subvert it all and throw the country back into the wild confusion of the fiat money madness.

WILL YOU [illegible] MEN, FARMERS

Manufacturers merchants of the country find the safety of your interests there? Will you help a party to power inside of which between its component elements the battle of a sound money system and an irredeemable paper currency is still pending and will you trust the earnings of the poor as well as the fortunes of the wealthy to the uncertainties of its issue? Or will you go to the republican side where great victories for the cause of good money have been [illegible] sound sense and patriotism [illegible] fight so far decided and where we may with certainty look for the same sound sense and patriotism to solve the problem not yet disposed of. I might go on with the catalogue to show you where the path of safety lies but it is enough. What is there on the democratic side which could induce you from the path of safety? Is it the nomination for the presidency of a soldier who during the war did brave deeds and deserved well of the country? [illegible] a sense of gratitude for those brave deeds is it that shall make you elevate the soldier to the place in which

A STATESMAN IS WANTED

Gratitude to those who on the field of battle bared their breasts to the enemies of the republic is a sentiment of which I shall not lightly speak. It is a noble sentiment but is the president of the United States a mere bauble that should be given as a reward for things done on the field of action? [illegible] different? Is the presidency like a presentation sword or a gift horse, or a [illegible] of money or a country house given to a victorious soldier to please him? If so then simple justice would compel us to look to the most meritorious of our soldiers and reward them in the order of their merit, and brave and skillful as General Hancock has been, there are others who have claims of still higher order. Then General Grant having already been president we should reward General Sherman and Lieutenant General Sheridan first before we come to the major general nominated by the democratic party. Certainly let us be grateful but let us not degrade the highest and most responsible trust of the republic to the level of a mere gift of gratitude. Let it never be forgotten that the presidency is a trust due to no man; that nobody has ever earned it as a thing belonging to him and that it should not be bestowed but for services rendered in the way of patriotic and enlightened statesmanship. But above all things

THE PRESIDENCY

Should never be pointed out as the attainable goal of ambition to the professional soldier. I certainly do not mean to depreciate the high standing of the regular army. But I cannot refrain from saying that, in a republic like ours, great care should be taken not to demoralize it by instilling political ambition into the minds of its officers. Gen Hancock may have meant ever so well when he issued general order No 40 which is now held up by a political party as his principal title to the presidency. But you once establish such a precedent and who knows how long it will be before you hear of other general orders issued for purposes somewhat similar to those for which they are now issued in Mexico! I am for the subordination of the military to the civil power. And therefore I am for making Congressman Garfield president and for letting General Hancock remain what he is a general always ready to draw the soldier's sword at the lawful command of the civil power.

WHAT HAVE WE ON THE OTHER HAND

In the republican candidate? His youth was that of a poor boy. He lived by his daily labor. He rose up from that state gradually by his own effort, taking with him the experience of poverty and hard work and a living sympathy with the poor and hard working man. He cultivated his mind by diligent study, and he stored it with useful knowledge. From a learner he became a teacher. When the republic called her sons to her defense, he joined the army and gained distinction in actual service as one of the brave on the battle field. He was called into the great council of the nation, and has sat there for nearly twenty years. No great question was discussed without his contributing the store of his knowledge to the fund of information necessary for wise decision. His speeches have ranked not only among the most instructive and useful. Scarcely a single great measure of legislation was passed during that long period without

THE TRAINING OF HIS MIND.

No man in congress has devoted more thorough inquiry to a larger number of important subjects and formed upon them opinions more matured and valuable. He was not as great a soldier as his competitor for the presidency but he has made himself and is universally recognized as what a president ought to be—a statesman. He understands all phases of life from the lowest to the highest for he has lived through them. He understands the great problems of politics, for he has studied them and actively participated in their discussion and solution. Few men in this country would enter the presidential office with its great duties and responsibilities, better or even as well equipped with knowledge and experience. He need only be true to his record in order to become a wise safe and successful president. If the people elect him it will be because his services rendered in the past are just of that nature which will give assurance of the ability to render greater services in the future.

IN A FEW MONTHS YOU WILL HAVE TO MAKE

Your choice. I know that when a party has been so long in power as the republican party many citizens may be moved by a desire for a change. In not a few cases it may be a desire for the sake of a change. While the impulse is natural it should not be followed without calm discrimination. Prudent men will never fail to consider whether the only change possible bids fair to be a change for the better. It is true that parties are apt to degenerate by the long possession of power. The republican party cannot expect to escape the common lot of humanity but no candid observer will deny that within a late period the republican party has shown signs of improvement rather than deterioration, and that it possesses the best share of the intelligence virtue and patriotism of the country. In matters of most essential moment to the public welfare it can be safely better counted upon for efficient and faithful service while its opponent opens only a prospect of uncertainty and confusion.

There are but few matters in the local market which call for comment to day. Financial matters move along in the accustomed channels with a fair supply of available funds to meet the current demand. Remittances from the interior are slow and some complaint is made on this score but there appears to be no tendency toward real stringency. The reserve to meet the increased call expected when the grain crop is to be moved is considered ample. At the present time there is little doing in the wheat trade, the vessels in port under engagement filling up very slowly and those disengaged are receiving but few offers, shippers evidently being disposed to operate with the utmost caution until the course of the European markets after the harvest is more clearly defined. At present the few transactions here are upon the basis of about $1 40 per cental for choice lots. Receipts are confined to small parcels from up the Columbia, this valley not yet having forwarded any considerable shipments to this point, although mills in the interior have handled a few lots. Reports of the harvesting and threshing so far are encouraging and there is no reason yet appearing to induce a reduction of the former estimated large surplus. The receipts for the 24 hours ending at noon to day were 2050 sks, all from east of the mountains. The flour stock is worked down to a moderate volume but sufficient is in hand to supply the somewhat limited demand for shipment and the fair local call now prevailing. Prices are steady at $5 per bbl for best brands, though round lots are contracted at a reduction of 12½@25c per bbl less.

Potatoes firm at 40@45c per 100 lbs for fair to good lots.

Dairy products of best quality are in good demand for the local trade with some inquiry for shipment to outside points.

The steamer Columbia sailing for San Francisco carried about 120 000 lbs of wool and a considerable shipment of hides, also a few bbls of flour, but in the aggregate her cargo was a small one.

There is nothing new in wool which continues to come forward in moderate quantity. Prices unchanged.

Catarrhal

[illegible]

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1 That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local and usually constitutional.

2 That, being constitutional the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3 That impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito urinary organs.

4 That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa and Consumption.

5 That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations, and Insoluble Snuffs cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6 That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

Treats all Chronic and Special Diseases

YOUNG MEN

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM the effects of youthful follies or indiscretions will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr S will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice $5. Call or address
